B. M. McMillion Asks For Second Term

Seeking the nomination for re-election to a second term in the office of County Commissioner for Precinct No. 1 of Milam County, B. M. McMillion announced his candidacy effective in the Primary election to be held on Saturday July 23rd.

Mr. McMillion's announcement finds public attention already focused upon his record in the brief 18 months he has served in the office. In 1936 he asked the people of the Precinct to elect him to this important post in the County government. The result was their indorsement. When he took oath in January 1937 his immediate concern was the equipment of his district to get full value for tax money spent on improvement and maintenance of roads.

Mr. McMillion found the machinery inadequate for the needs of his important system of highways and lateral roads. He found that repairs and maintenance costs of the worn equipment were cutting heavily into (Turn to page 7)

Winchell and Bernie Bring You "Love and Hisses" Sunday at Cameron Theatre

Walter Winchell and Ben Bernie, those famous feudists who put puns into their punches, are back for the greatest return match in history in "Love and Hisses," coming Sunday to the Cameron Theatre. This time the reason for all the barbed wit is the fight over their new sweet-hot from Paris, the saucy and vivacious Simone Simon, who sings operatic arias and popular ballads for the greatest surprise of the year.

This new-idea musical show from hit-making Twentieth Century-Fox features a great laugh-a-second cast, including Bert Lahr, Joan Davis, Dick Baldwin, the Raymond Scott Quintet, Ruth Terry, Douglas Fowley and Chick Chandler.

Brand new hot-and-hissing songs by Gordon and Reveal head the music. (Turn to page 7)

BILL ALEX BONDS TO RUN FOR RE-ELECTION

Bill Alex Bonds, Assessor and Collector of Taxes for Milam County, is a candidate for the nomination and re-election to another term in the office, effective in the Primary election to be held on Saturday, July 23rd.

The announcement that he would seek another term drew public attention to a brilliant record made within the space of a brief time in this office. A short time ago the people of Texas amended the Constitution and combined the offices of Assessor and Collector of Taxes. The people of Milam county called to the administration of this important office one of their best known and capable citizens. In thus expressing their faith and confidence they have received in dividends of service one of the major contributions to public life in the long history of the county.

The important relationship of the office to the people and to the business of the county is a matter of general knowledge among the people. In this office originate the major revenues on which the government depends. When the offices of Assessor and Collector were combined, the important matter of organization ensued. This brought to Mr. Bonds and his assistants a problem of great detail requiring not only the application of accuracy but experience born of knowledge few possess. In completing this first necessary work, Mr. Bonds was able to save to the tax payers a considerable (Turn to page 5)

Herald Story of Bandit Capture Complete and Correct

A blood stained revolver, newspaper clipping and battered bullets from a bandit's leg, was all that Criminal District Attorney Emory B. Camp possessed this week from the shooting and capture of W. E. Garner at Buckholts last Thursday.

The clipping was taken from Garner's clothing at the hospital and told of the kidnapping of W. C. Nelson and wife in Houston. The Nelson wrist watch was found on Garner.

All witnesses were taken to Austin where they are being held. None were implicated in any way with the crime.

Mr. Camp said the story printed by the Herald was not only complete but correct in every detail.

A complete record of the case was made by Mr. Camp for the state officials.

In a statement to the people Wednesday he said he would not offer again for re-election. He will leave an all time high record for successful prosecutions in criminal cases in the office. His retirement was a matter of regret to hundreds here and over the county.

Mr. Camp's statement: To the People of Milam County:

Three times the people of Milam County have elected me to public office.

My first entry into politics resulted in my election to the House of Representatives in the Texas Legislature. Since that time I have twice been honored with election to the office of Criminal District Attorney. For those honors my heart will always be overflowing with gratitude.

As a member of the 43rd Legislature I, at all times, sought to faithfully represent my county and to ac-

Market For Peas Guaranteed by Hudson Wood at Milano

Peas as a cash crop from lands suited to production from acres taken out of major crops under the government program, were in the limelight this week when Hudson (Doc) Woods of Milano announced a market for any amount produced by farmers.

In 1936 Mr. Woods bought 26,000 pounds. Last year he bought more than 100,000 pounds. He guarantees a market and also guarantees top cash prices for peas.

Blackeye, Brown Crowders and White Cream peas are among the varieties to sell better on the market here. Mr. Woods maintains his market in Milano where he has ample facilities to handle the big crop.

Peas are harvested in July and August. Mr. Woods said that he is making plans to buy a larger production this year.

How New Cotton Law Will Operate

(Note: This is the first of a series of three articles on the new farm act as it applies to Texas cotton growers.)

Payments to cotton farmers to be conditioned upon soil conservation was among the important provisions of the 1938 farm act as outlined by Secretary Wallace.

Other important provisions as they relate to cotton farmers included:

Parity payments will be made when and if funds are provided by congress; cotton prices adjustment payment will be made on the 1937 crop.

Market Quotas Possible

If the supply of cotton exceeds the "normal supply" by more than seven per cent, marketing quotas on cotton would go into operation for the next marketing year unless they were rejected by the producers.

The normal supply of cotton is estimated at 18,200,000 bales. Since the world supply of American cotton for the current marketing year is about 24,500,000 bales, Wallace said marketing quotas would be effective on the 1938 crop unless growers decide otherwise.

The act directed the secretary to proclaim a national allotment within 10 days and set the minimum for 1938 at 10,000,000 bales. The 1938 allotment was expected to be about 10,750,000 bales.

The national allotment is to be divided among cotton growing states on the basis of the production during the preceding five years, taking into consideration the acreage diverted from cotton.

State allotments, in terms of bales, would be translated into terms of acres and divided among the counties on the basis of the acreage planted to cotton in each county during the years 1933 to 1937, inclusive.

To Individual Farmers

Allotments then would be made to the individual farms, after excluding wheat, tobacco and rice acreage, on a percentage of the tilled land.

The act provides for a referendum on cotton marketing quotas within 30 days. If more than one-third of the producers voting in a referendum voted against quotas, they would not go into effect.

If marketing quotas were operative, sales in excess of marketing quotas would be subject to a penalty of two cents per pound during the first marketing year, and three cents per pound if produced and sold in a subsequent year.

A farmer who knowingly exceeded his acreage would, if quotas were in under the conservation program, also any cotton price adjustment payments.

Penalty Is Explained

The penalty of two cents per pound would not apply to cotton produced on a farm which had an allotment where the total production was 1000 pounds of lint cotton or less.

Cotton loans would be available in 1938, if marketing quotas were in effect, when the average price of cotton on Aug. 1 was below 52 per cent of parity (at present parity is about 16 cents,) or when the August crop estimate was in excess of a normal year's domestic consumption and exports.

Loan rates might vary from 52 to 75 per cent of parity. Non-co-operators might obtain loans only on the cotton in excess of their marketing quotas and at the rate 40 per cent less than the rate for co-operators.

School Students To Aid Highway Department in Traffic Problems

According to J. E. Wright, district supervisor of the Highway Planning Survey who was recently in Cameron, local high school students have been granted permission to assist in a special study soon to be made of the use of state highways, county roads and city streets by car owners living in Milam county. This is a part of a statewide and nationwide program to collect information needed in planning the construction and maintenance of highways, roads and streets.

The information which is being collected through the local high school is an important part of the Highway Planning Survey, according to Mr. Wright. He said that both local and state school officials have co-operated fully in this work, and it is anticipated that local students will furnish a great deal of much-needed and valuable information concerning Milam county.

Mr. Wright said that the Highway Planning Survey, which is a new branch of the Highway Department and is financed both by the state and federal government, is doing several different types of work.

Miss Billye Moore Weds Hugh V. Jones In Home Wedding

Miss Billye Moore became the bride of Hugh Victor Jones of Akron, Ohio, Tuesday at high noon in the home of her aunt, Mrs. Vera Decoux. The attendants were Mrs. Oliver D. Nesmith of Houston, matron of honor and Frank H. Thomas of Akron, Ohio, best man. Preceding the ceremony Mrs. W. G. Harsha sang, "The Sweetest Story Ever Told" with Mrs. Frank H. Reid at the piano and W. I. Clark, Jr., playing the violin. As the music changed to Lohengrin's Wedding March the matron of honor descended the stairs and took her place before the improvised altar in the archway of the living room. Bridal wreath and ferns and two large floor baskets of white carnations made the beautiful setting. The bride approached the altar on the arm of her brother, Taylor Moore, who gave her in marriage. Dr. Harry K. Knowles performed the impressive ring ceremony. While the vows were taken "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life" was played softly. Immediately following the ceremony the guests were served in the dining room where a lace laid dining table was graced with a beautiful wedding cake. Over 50 guests registered in the bride's book.

The bride was dressed in a spring model of blue which set off her blond beauty. Her hat was an off the face model which tied under the chin with blue net. All her accessories were in the same shade of blue and she wore a shoulder corsage of gardenias. For "something old" she carried a lace handkerchief belonging to her grandmother.

The bride was born and reared in Cameron, finishing here in Yoe High and later attending business school in Houston, where she has made her home the past year. She is the daughter of Mrs. Vada Walters of this city.

Mr. Jones was born and reared in Ohio, receiving his education in the north. He is a chemical engineer, employed by the Seibierling Tire and Rubber Co., of Akron, Ohio, where they will make their home.

Their many friends wish for them a happy married life.

Cameron friends and relatives who attended the wedding were: Mrs. Mamie A. Hefley, Miss Dell Horstmann, Dean White, Waymon Jenness, Mrs. W. G. Harsha and Mrs. Frank H. Reid.

Dallie Green won a box of Valentine candy when she pinned the tail on a donkey.

A stirring moment of the party was the cake cutting. A large heart-shaped birthday cake on which burned 6 candles attracted the little guests. The following received emblems from the cuts: Jane Henderson, scoop; Joe Fikes, skillet; Kate McLane, ring; Tommie Dell Jenness, cannon; John Henderson, Jr., key; Susan Rosson, pipe; Hill Swift, thimble; De Denson, dime.

On the lawn where Mrs. Mangum arranged the refreshment course, heart shaped cakes and drinks were served.

comply what was best for the greater number.

As Criminal District Attorney for Milam County I have worked hard. I put forth the best that was in me for the cause of law and order, for the protection of life and property.

For four years I have carried the white-plumed banner of the prosecution, around which has ebbed and flowed the dramatic tide of fierce legal battle. The experience has not always been pleasing. Many times the satisfaction of victory has been overshadowed by the sad and serious events that issue from the bloody tracks of crime. But amid the clash and the conflict I have always coveted a clear conscience and a creed of honor.

In all of my official duties as well as in my private life I have always remembered that "Duty's path is an officer's best road, a clear conscience his best traveling companion and the fixed star of truth his only guide."

After six years of political life in Milam County I have chosen to retire to the private practice of law. I sincerely hope that my record as an officer has the approval of the people who entrusted to me the sacred duty of representing them in the battle I have waged to see law and order vindicated upon every occasion and society held supreme in the process of administering the laws of our country.

To those who supported me in my campaigns I again express my sincere appreciation. For the entire citizenship I hold only the highest esteem, respect and good will. I will carry with me from public office only the pleasant memory of having served the people and their interest in my native county to the maximum of my ability. Into my record of service as your Criminal District Attorney I placed the limit of my conception of duty in industrious regard for my oath and the confidence it implied. When my term shall have ended I give back to the people that trust, hopeful that none may say it ever lacked in me the fullness of appreciation.

Time will never erase from my memory the helpful co-operation that came from so many of our people. I feel sure that without their help I could not now take as complete satisfaction in my record. In my place as Criminal District Attorney I was fortunate to have an abundance of faith and confidence expressed in terms of loyalty to the things I sought to accomplish under my oath. In the future I trust that my successors in office may have the co-operation it was my privilege to enjoy.

In retiring from office, I do not intend to lose all interest in public life, but only to be interested as a private citizen.

In the years to come I trust it will be possible for me to become better acquainted with all the people of this county, and cement friendships more securely.

Sincerely,
EMORY B. CAMP.

Taxes

sessed on the 1936 Tax Roll.

At the close of business on January 31st, 1938, there had been collected 73.26 per cent of the Total State, County, Road and School taxes assessed on the 1937 Tax Roll.

At the close of business on June 30th, 1937, when the 1936 taxes actually became delinquent, there had been collected 84.6 per cent of the total State, County Road and School taxes assessed on 1936 Tax Roll. The approximate 10 per cent increase being the last one-half of taxes paid by those who took advantage of the one-half payment plan, that is, by paying one-half of their taxes on or before November 30th, of the year for which taxes are assessed, there is no penalty on the remaining one-half, if paid by June 30th, following.

The increase in the percentage of collection from the 1937 Tax Roll will be approximately the same as that of 1936, at the close of business June 30th, 1938, if those who paid their first one-half before November 30th 1937, pay the last one-half on or before June 30th, 1938, and this is almost invariably done.

For the year 1936 there were issued 6244 polls and 261 exemptions.

For the year 1936 there were issued 4139 polls and 50 exemptions.

For the year 1937 there were issued 5738 polls and 156 exemptions.

You will note that there were 611 more voting certificates issued in 1935 than in 1937, both election years.

able sum by operating the combined offices with one less employee. The office is self sustaining and turns into the treasury each year more money in excess earnings than any other office in the county.

A contributing factor in the general efficiency of his office, one that gave facilities of better advantage to the people, was the construction of new offices in the basement of the court house. Here Mr. Bonds has something like an ideal arrangement and equipment for the better dispatch of the business of the office.

Mr. Bonds realized from the beginning that qualified and efficient employees are necessary to the proper administration of any public office. Qualified assistants has long been a tradition in this office and Mr. Bonds has maintained these standards thus giving the people a full measure of efficient service.

Following each annual audit Mr. Bonds receives from the Comptroller of Public Accounts a letter of commendation. Here is an extract from a recent letter:

"Mr. Bonds and his excellent corps of Assistants have one of the neatest, most accurate and best kept set of records of any County in Texas.

"We desire to commend them for their most excellent work and thank them for their co-operation while we were working in their County. It is a real pleasure to work in their County and with them."

The measure of public esteem decreed by long years of confidence was finding general expression following the announcement of his candidacy for another term. Born and reared in Milam county, Mr. Bonds was able to bring with him to the office he now holds, a knowledge of conditions as well as a wide acquaintance among the people. In the analysis of service this fact counts for efficiency as well as training because of a better understanding of every condition that may arise and friendships always bridge difficulties. Mr. Bonds deeply appreciates his friends and appreciates the loyalty of the people and the co-operation he has had in this office.

In making his announcement Mr. Bonds expressed his gratitude to the people for the confidence they have placed in his ability and integrity to administer the affairs of this office in keeping with the highest traditions of public service.

There is much work to do and Mr. Bonds believes that his first loyalty is to duty. He hopes to be able to see the people and to thank them for their support. Unless an active campaign is demanded he feels he should devote the major part of time to the work demanded of him in the office.

In making this announcement he sends greetings and sincere good wishes to his many friends and to all the people, asking each one for their vote and support.

Mr. Bonds appreciates the hundreds of expressions of appreciation for his service and the record he has made in the limited time he has occupied this office. He entertains an ardent desire to give back to the people in service a full measure of reward for their confidence and kindness to him.

Mutuals

Dec. 31, 1936 being 332,978.

The above figures speak for themselves concerning the benefits of insurance in Texas local mutual aid associations and the soundness of the companies as a whole. They also are indisputable evidence of the confidence if the people of Texas in local mutual aid insurance and their approval of the plan whereby these companies furnish life insurance protection at a very moderate cost.

These companies issue policies of small denominations as well as for larger amounts and usually permit payments of premiums on a monthly basis, which places insurance within the reach of all alike. Thus through these companies, people in very moderate financial circumstances may receive the benefits of life insurance protection for their loved ones when they might not otherwise have this opportunity. Nearness of the home office to the large majority of the policyholders makes possible a more personal service and often a much more prompt payment of claims.

The Cameron Life Insurance Company stands near the head of this list, in membership, mortality reserve fund and claims paid. It has an outstanding record for its prompt, courteous method in paying its claims. Information concerning its liberal policies, both for adults and children, will be gladly given upon inquiry made at the Home Office of the Company located in the Citizens National Bank Building, Cameron, Texas.

"Californian" Old West Drama Saturday Feature at Cameron

The character of the West's most famous bandit finds a remarkable parallel in Harold Bell Wright's "The Californian," stirring outdoor drama released by Twentieth Century-Fox, which opens Saturday at the Cameron Theatre, with Ricardo Cortez in the starring role.

This fabled outlaw, the most daring and elusive renegade in the history of California, was the notorious Tiburcio Vasquez. Turning against the American invaders whose advent had despoiled the vast holdings of the prosperous Mexican landowners, he was for years the scourge of the offending forces of the law. Throughout the length of the new frontier he became known as the Robin Hood of the West, preying only on those who represented the new era introduced by the hated gringos.

In the Harold Bell Wright story, an exactly similar reason impels Ricardo Cortez to defy the law and to attempt to regain from crooked politicians the mining claims, ranches and livestock confiscated in lieu of enormous taxes. Establishing a camp in the mountains, he and his carries on a whirlwind romance with campaign against the men who have brought the district to the verge of ruin. At the same time the outlaw carries on a whirlwind romance with Marjorie Weaver, seen as the daughter of a neighboring rancher.

In addition to Cortez and Miss Weaver, the cast of "The Californian" includes Katherine DeMille, Nigel de Brulier and Morgan Wallace. The Principal Production, released by Twentieth Century-Fox, was directed by Gus Meins.

for Women only

CARDUI is a special medicine for the relief of some of the suffering which results from a woman's weakened condition. It has been found to make monthly periods less disagreeable, and, when its use has been kept up awhile, has helped many poorly nourished women to get more strength from their food. This medicine (pronounced "Card-u-i") has been used and recommended by women for many, many years. Find out whether it will help you by giving it a fair trial. Of course, if not benefited, consult a physician.

Glenda Farrell is Preview Star in "Adventurous Blonde"

Other men may think Glenda Farrell, the movie star, is a disquieting female—but not Barton MacLane, the big he-man of the films.

Glenda is one of the few women Barton doesn't think disquieting. But not exactly in the sense most men would consider Glenda disquieting. Barton is afraid of women. He's afraid of Glenda, too, but not to the degree that he isn't fairly comfortable around her.

"Women," said Barton, grouping for words, "are so fragile."

Not that Barton can't express himself. He has written two stage plays, quite a few vaudeville and short radio sketches, and lately—of all things, for such a huge and husky hard-boiled bruiser!—some published poems!

He has difficulty, however, expressing himself on the subject of women. He was having difficulty doing so one recent day on the set of the latest picture of the "Torchy" series—"Adventurous Blonde," in which as usual he and Glenda are paired.

"When I look at a woman in that scared sort of way with a frown on my mush, as they've characterized me in these stories, don't credit me with acting," he continued. "I feel scared. Or not scared exactly, but awkward and on the defensive. Even with Glenda."

"But she's the best of the lot to act with because she doesn't seem so fragile or strange as the rest. When I say fragile I mean mentally, psychologically, as well as physically. I'm a regular bull-calf around the dames—all arms, legs and shoulders—and hands and feet. I'm the boy who was bashful in the presence of women and girls as a kid—only unlike most boys I haven't outgrown the feeling. I'm afraid if I say something, I'll offend them."

Circulation, news carriage and integrity gives The Herald the lead.

the funds of the Precinct. He applied a ready business training through years of experience, and brought to his Precinct modern machinery and now has demonstrated the wisdom that good equipment is essential to efficiency and economy.

A remarkable tribute to his service is the general commendation among the people of his Precinct that faith in his ability has been justified and proven in these and other instances. They point out that Mr. McMillion, although put to the necessity of buying new equipment at the outset, he was able to so conserve the financial resources of the Precinct as to achieve a maximum of road benefits and remain financially strong to anticipate any need that may arise over the district.

Mr. McMillion's business training, his youthful vigor and broad general knowledge of county business has given prestige to the Commissioner's court. He is one of four in a team of hard working officials who transact the business of the people. He believes that the Court, as the business organization of the county is important enough to demand the best talent. His concern has been to measure up to the responsibilities of the office. That he has done so the people everywhere will testify.

The first prerequisite of service is knowledge of conditions and needs. Mr. McMillion has no superior in this measure of qualification. Reared in the district, knowing his people, their problems and sympathetic to the point of sacrificial service, his record is an inspiring example of the better conception of public service. He brought to the office a life time of business training. In addition he possesses the finer quality of co-operation, believes in the principle of service to all and holds steadfastly to the rule that tax money belongs to all the people and that every section of the Precinct must and will get its rightful return on investments in public revenues. In these and other characteristics he occupies a place unique in service as a County Commissioner.

Mr. McMillion knows full well that lateral roads are the life arteries of travel, that they accommodate more people in the aggregate of proper use that highways and therefore his concern has been to make accessible all points in his Precinct and to connect with main highways, thus giving his people a comprehensive network of better roads. While he has not been able to achieve his full plans in improvements, he promises the people that in time he will justify every confidence they expressed when they elected him to this important office.

Mr. McMillion is regarded everywhere as possessing the ideal qualifications. His record of public service is appreciated far beyond the borders of his Precinct and the people as a whole congratulate the people of Precinct 1 on the character, energy and intelligence of the man they selected to have so large a share in the administration of the county government.

oath. Although Mr. Brashear did not, in his youth, study law, his experience before entering the office had brought to him a fair knowledge of what would be required in discharging his duties. Since entering the office he has made an exhaustive study of the legal requirements necessary to just and correct interpretation of statutes governing his work, and has emerged one of the best qualified men to hold this office at any time.

Mr. Brashear has been industrious. He has put into his work the maximum of energy, often times going far beyond the call of duty to see justice done and to render service in the cause of the arm of government he represents. The importance of the Justice Court, is well known among all the people. Criminal cases of importance originate in Justice Court. The record thus begun must stand the test of litigation that follows. In his time Mr. Brashear has had the opportunity to serve in many of the more widely known criminal dockets and his experience has been broadened as a result.

Although qualified to serve in any capacity his court may exact, Mr. Brashear has brought to the office he holds the compelling combination of a ready smile and justice tempered with mercy. He has been firm though sympathetic. When stern duty called, he has met the challenge. Society has not found him lacking in essential conceptions of right against wrong. The unfortunate have not found him wanting in disposition to lead the mantle of mercy in trying circumstances. His friends are proud of his conception of duty and point to the sum total of wealth he has thus contributed to the public service.

Born and reared in this county, he knows the people, understands as neighbor to neighbor the whole philosophy of good relations, and friends point out that he has earned abundantly the confidence another term justifies and will vote and support his candidacy for re-election.

Mr. Brashear is a long line Democrat. He is a candidate for the Democratic nomination and asks the support of all the people regardless of their political beliefs, appreciating the commendation of his many friends who say he merits the appraisal, a good and completely equipped Justice of the Peace.

sical score, with additional arrangements by Pollack and Mitchell, Raymond Scott and Zeno and Irwin.

Darryl F. Zanuck, maker of the screen's biggest hit shows, was in charge of production and Sidney Lanfield directed. Lanfield also made "Sing, Baby, Sing," "Thin Ice," "One In A Million," and "Wake Up and Live."

The result is laughs and kisses, music and misses, and a show that's got "ummmph!" the new 1938 requirement of musical comedies.

The "punning funsters" of "Wake Up and Live" get all excited over the talents of a cute little number fresh from Paris, played by Simone. Bernie, the "old maestro," discovers her first, and asks Winchell to help put her over by a "plug" in his column. Because she is Bernie's protégée Winchell refuses even to listen to Simone, so the band leader concocts a plot.

The conspiracy works and Winchell's enthusiasm, syndicated in hundreds of newspapers, brings fame to the little French songstress. Winchell doesn't know that she is Bernie's singer until shortly before the "maestro's" new club is to open when Simone reveals her identity and exposes the plot to the columnist.

Winchell thereupon swears revenge on his favorite enemy and the laugh-filled climax presents the most hilarious idea in vengeance since happy endings were invented.

Woven into the continuity are bright musical spots featuring specialty numbers by the Peters Sisters, Chilton and Thomas and the Brewster Twins.

Kenneth Macgowan served as associate producer for the screen play by Curtis Kenyon and Art Arthur, from a story by Art Arthur.

Herald Story of Badit Capture Complete and Correct

A blood stained revolver, newspaper clipping and battered bullets from a bandit's leg, was all that Criminal District Attorney Emory B. Camp possessed this week from the shooting and capture of W. E. Garner at Buckholts last Thursday.

The clipping was taken from Garner's clothing at the hospital and told of the kidnapping of W. C. Nelson and wife in Houston. The Nelson wrist watch was found on Garner.

All witnesses were taken to Austin where they are being held. None were implicated in any way with the crime.

Mr. Camp said the story printed by the Herald was not only complete but correct in every detail.

A complete record of the case was made by Mr. Camp for the state officials.

Goodyear Tire Demonstration is Amazing Feat Of Safety

Residents of Cameron Tuesday witnessed one of the most startling demonstrations of highway safety it has ever been their privilege to see, when tires were purposely blown out on cars traveling at high speed. Instead of a bad accident, nothing happened.

The demonstrations, arranged by Hefley-Stedman Motor Co., local dealers for the The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., conclusively proved that blowout accidents at high speed need not result in accident, but that when the car is equipped with Goodyear Life Guard tubes, the driver can bring the car to a safe stop, without even a swerve.

To cause the blowouts, the car was run over a plate studded with huge railway spikes. Dynamite caps, controlled from inside the car (without the driver knowing when the blowouts were coming) ripped casings wide open, caused blowouts that would in all probability have resulted in serious accident with ordinary tubes.

The Life Guard tube is an ingenious arrangement, a tire within a tube, which prevents all of the air escaping when a blowout occurs. According to hundreds of unsolicited testimonial letters received at Goodyear's main office in Akron, Ohio, the Life Guard tube is credited with preventing hundreds of accidents following blowouts at high speed, eliminating damage to cars and their occupants.

The tube has been hailed by heads of police and fire departments and safety officials as being one of the greatest contributions to highway safety in a decade, according to Mr. Stedman.

Whatever may be the outcome of British Foreign Secretary Eden's political career, he is not likely to be reduced to the relief pool. His father in law willed him an annuity of $25,000, while Mrs. Eden was left $750,000 in one sum.

THE ELECTRIC PENNY

The GIANT PENNY

PAYS THE WAY TO better living

Any penny becomes a giant penny when spent for electricity because it buys so much service. Just think of getting a ringside, blow-by-blow description of a championship fight, and an hour of musical entertainment, plus a half-hour dramatic performance over your radio... all for one penny.

Ordinarily we think of a penny buying a stick of gum, a small pack of matches, or a piece of candy... but, when it is spent for electricity it takes on real importance among the coins of the realm. It buys freedom from drudgery for mother, better light for the family, deliciously cooked food, and countless conveniences. Some examples are shown at the right and left in this space.

Enjoy the buying power of pennies... spend them for T. P. & L. low-cost electricity and watch them work like giants for you.

Shop for "plug-in" appliances at stores and shops where electrical things are sold... make ready to use the services of pennies!

TEXAS POWER & LIGHT COMPANY

...runs your electric refrigerator from three to four hours.

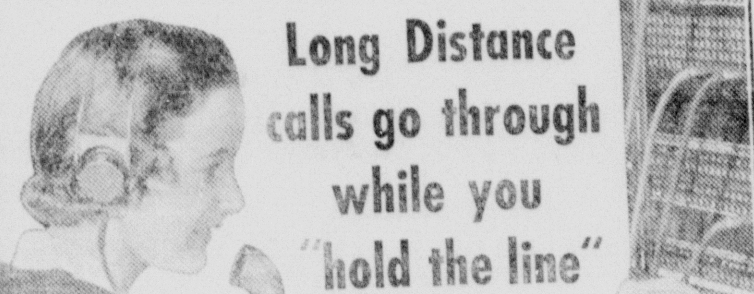

...brings you more than two hours' entertainment through your radio.

...will run your mixer half an hour a day for more than four days.

...per person per meal will cook your food in an electric cooker.

...will operate your electric washer for more than an hour.

...will give you Better Light with a Better Sight lamp for two hours.

Long Distance calls go through while you "hold the line" because telephone management said...

"OUR JOB IS TO MAKE SERVICE FASTER"

The men who head the telephone company have always believed even good service can be better. Their aim, like that of every other telephone worker, has been better and better service at low cost to the user. One result is that today you can call distant cities as quickly, as easily, as you telephone across the street.

A few years ago it took seven minutes (average) to make a long distance connection. Today the average time is 96 seconds!

U. S. Navy Lends Aid to "Submarine D-1" Opening Thursday at Cameron

All the resources of the United States Navy were loaned, it is said, to Warner Bros. for the production of a thrilling melodrama called "Submarine D-1," which opens Thursday at the Cameron Theatre and is announced as the most stirring and authentic film ever made with a "tin fish"—as the gods irreverently term an undersea boat—as its subject.

The movie folk journeyed to Newport, R. I., to make part of it, down to Cocos Coco in the Panama Canal Zone for another, and then to San Diego for a lot more.

One of the most modern of submarines the real D-1 (also known as the Dolphin,) was used for the picture. Battleships, cruisers, destroyers and the like, by the score, are to be seen in its action.

supporting roles is theshredteltaupup Pat O'Brien and George Brent are co-starring, and in one of the leading supporting roles is the sensational young newcomer, Wayne ("Kid Galahad") Morris. Other notables in the cast include Doris Weston, Frank McHugh, Ronald Reagan, Henry O'Neill and Regis Toomey.

The Story—"Butch" Rogers, (Pat

O'Brien) and "Sock" McGillis (Wayne Morris,) fellow sailors and rivals for Ann Sawyer (Doris Weston,) meet in New London, Conn., where Ann has just married Tom Callam (Regis Toomey,) one of their pals, who has slipped in and stolen the girl while they were fighting between themselves.

A week after the marriage, Tom goes out on a sub for a final test and it is sunk with all hands. Ann goes away to get over the shock of her grief.

Butch is training a new crew for the D-1, then building in the yards, and Sock, a torpedo man is in the school. Lieut. Commander Matthews (George Brent) is to command the boat with Butch as his chief petty officer.

Just as the D-1 is about ready for launching, Ann returns and announces that she is going to get a job with the Navy.

Butch gets Ann a job with the Navy at San Diego and the friends plan a reunion when the D-1 arrives on her maiden cruise. On the test trip, Sock's carelessness causes an accident that delays the craft and Matthews is called on the carpet. Butch, who worships his commander, gets tough with the crew and in an argument with Sock the latter gets so mad he determines to take Butch's job away from him.

Matthews and Butch have worked for years on a rescue aircrafter which they hope will end submarine disasters, permitting rescue of crews from the bottom of the ocean.

Butch works on the invention, perfecting it and Matthews and the D-1 are ordered to sea for maneuvers with Sock as his chief petty officer. Matthews eludes a screen of destroyers and "torpedoes" a battleship, but a short time later his D-1 is accidentally rammed and sinks to the bottom.

One officer is badly hurt, and when help comes and the men rise to the surface by means of "air lungs," he appears doomed along with Sock who has stayed behind as there's no one left to work the escape valve.

The rescue chamber works and Sock and the officer are rescued. It means promotion and honors for the inventors and high commendation from the Admiral (Henry O'Neill)

Circulation, news carriage and integrity gives The Herald the lead.

Screen's Best Talent In "Stand In" For Bargain Days at Cameron Theatre

Hamlet has turned to slapstick. Romeo has taken up burlesque and caricature. Which means that Leslie Howard is having one swell time.

He told about it on the set of Walter Wanger's "Stand-in," the comedy about Hollywood, which co-stars him opposite Joan Blondell at the Cameron Theatre on March 1 and 2. Just the day before, the philosophic Leslie Howard had been hit in the face with a stagnant tomato and subjected to various other indignities dating from the golden movie age of Mack Sennett.

But he told about it with relish and enjoyed, as if tripping over a manhole and pretty nearly breaking his neck were fun. He said it was fun.

The idea struck him, he said, a few months ago in New York. He had just been doing his "Hamlet," at which audiences do not laugh, and he had almost forgotten the pleasure to be had from genuine laughter. He had known it once, for despite his pictures he had done light and comic things in an earlier day. Back in his hotel room that evening:

"I said to myself, 'The time has come, the walrus said.' And I wired Warner's to look for a scrip for me, a funny script."

And so was born, not long ago, the broad burlesque of two acting folk, "It's Love I'm After." Leslie Howard and Bette Davis, heretofore united in such serious pieces of "Of Human Bondage" and "The Petrified Forest," step out as a comic pair presenting the funnier aspects of actors taking themselves seriously.

In "Stand-in," Leslie Howard swings even farther to the left of serious drama. His Atterbury Dodd, humorless, bespectacled broker sent to Hollywood to straighten out a sinking film company, is a real character, to whom manholes are not the only pitfalls and hurled tomatoes not the only weapons of his adversaries. But manholes and tomatoes—they give that Sennett touch.

"It's really the only way," said Howard, "for an actor to preserve his life, to stay out of the little narrow box they're continually trying to shove him in. Show what versatility he has and he'll live longer."

Howard came into films as a "spiritual type" in "Outward Bound" and continued as such in "Smilin' Through" and "Berkeley Square." Then came the philosophical-tragic phase of "Of Human Bondage" and "The Petrified Forest." The classic was represented on the screen by

"Romeo and Juliet." And now—

"I suppose," he chuckled, "this could be called the Mack-Sennett stage of my career."

In "Stand-in," the Gene Towne-Graham Baker screenplay of the Clarence Budington Kelland story, Leslie and Joan are ably supported by Humphrey Bogart, Alan Mowbray, Marla Shelton, C. Henry Gordon and Jack Carson. The production was directed by Tay Garnett for release through United Artists.

THE NEW UNIVERSAL PRESENTS

“Accuracy”

There is no substitute for “accuracy” in chronicling news stories.

Reputable newspapers value the asset of trained writers and experienced men who know what news is and how to get it.

Making a newspaper is not an easy job. In the old days men had to know their business to qualify. In the modern day all accurate publications value highly the asset of accuracy and still cling to the standards that have made the newspaper America’s greatest influence.

The value of co-operation is not to be overlooked. Often it is difficult to get facts. “Guesswork” is the worst type of journalism. Half baked reporters without disciplin or training have plagued the profession for centuries.

The Herald appreciates the great number of commendations that have come to it not in recent years . . . but throughout its long years of service.

To say what is admissable to its columns often brings down criticism. To open the columns to every gesture and inconsequential thing degrades the high standards Herald has maintained through the years.

If you read it in the Herald you can understand it. If we print it you can depend on it being as accurate as is humanly possible and backed up by experience and knowledge of what it is about.
